The public utilities centering in Chicago reach out not only into neighboring cities and counties but into neighboring states. They assist in establishing economic limits and boundaries as definite as those of local government. The limits and boundaries of administration do not conform to these economic lines. Increased ease of transportation and communication serves to knit closer an economic whole.

Metropolitan Chicago comprises more than half of the population of the state of Illinois. It is an economic and social unit. It requires home rule over its public utilities and other affairs which are common not to one community but to the whole area. The survey of the Association of Commerce should serve to increase the growth of a metropolitan Chicago consciousness.

All that Chicago has to do is to build roads, in any direction it wants, with no great natural obtained by the way. All that Chicago needs in the way of means of ingress and egrees is a system of roads—wide roads—radiating out into the surrounding territory and belting the city in concentric circumferences. We need roads wide enough to bear the ever increasing traffic, with highway crossings and railway crossings separated, with traffic lanes distinct, for the sake of speed and safety.

If New York can meet the difficulties imposed on it by its location; if it can build bridges and tunnels; certainly Chicago possesses sintitative enough to build wide roads. And it is enourage ing in this connection to note that the west side is awakening to the need for a boulevard to the same of the city. Jackson boulevard and Washington street are inadequate, and influential business men and park officials are in favor of converting Monroe street into a 200 foot boule ward. The Birth of an Idea—A Definite Price Policy

Three years ago when The Davis Company was casting about for an idea to individualize this store—for a policy that would mean more to the public than merely a store slogan—the idea of Bottom Prices Guaranteed -We Will Not Be Undersold was decided on, with the qualifying clause: If you buy anything here and pay more than the same article is priced elsewhere on the same day, we will refund you the difference in cash. And so today, three years after its adoption, we point with pride to this idea as an important factor in the phenomenal success of this store, now generally admitted to be one of Chicago's fastest growing popular priced stores.

Another loop store was invaded by burglars yesterday. As in the cases of several others that have been ransacked lately during the early morning hours, it was looted of its choicest merchandise by men who had to use

They jumped out of their car, smashed the big plate glass in the door with padded bricks, climbed through the opening, gathered up about 100 men's suits, mostly tuxedos, rushed back to their car and sped away. The suits were valued at about $5,000 by Mr.

But if the thieves were interprising so were the police. For by midnight Friday a total of 3,095 of the number stolen in Chicago had been recovered. In addition, the police auto details had managed 'o salvage a total of 52 machines which had been stolen else where and brought to Chicago for sals to avoid detection. This brought the total recoveries for the year up to 9,616.

Indication that the thieves did not loss their cunning with the coming of the new year was apparent, police officials pointed out yesterday, in the fact that between Friday midnight and p. m. yesterday 65 machines had mysteriously disappeared from garages and parking places. ISAIAH Couldn't See The Flappers Either ANYONE who thinks the young people A have just started for the demnition bowwows in this generation should read what Isaiah said about them 2600 years ago.

Isaiah couldn't see the flappers either—and his anguish over their antics has a strangely wonder whether the young people have ever been quite as bad as their elders painted them.

How many mothers of today really know their daughters? No, mother - not the sullen grown-up child, listening impatiently to your lectures - not that daughter! But the vivid, charming girl, voted the most popular in her class, who never lacks a partner at a dance, full of eager life and joy-do you really know that daughter?

It is the oldest, and the most tragic story in the world, this drifting apart of parents and their children. Some happy few there are of every generation who keep youthful hearts through all their years. Lucky are the children born in such homes—for where there is understanding there is seldom need for challenge or revolt.

It is in such homes as these that Delineator makes its truest appeal to mothers and daughters alike. For Delineator combines the wisdom of long experience with an alert and up-to-theinterests. In fiction and fashions it is as vivid and youthful as the new day of woman's freedom.

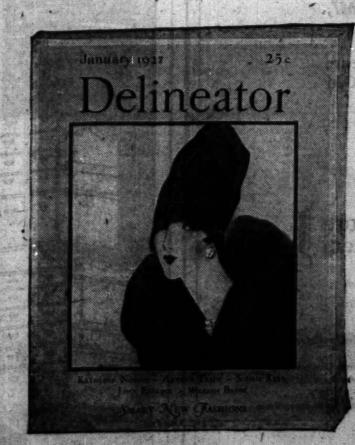

In every phase of home-making Delineator Home Institute keeps its pages in step with the ·latest progress of domestic science. Delineator, in fine, is a monthly inspiration to women with youthful hearts, whatever their years may beto women who are leaders in their communities and find Delineator's pages an ever-present help in furthering the art of gracious living.

1927 is going to be good in the Chicago territory

1927 will be a prosperous year in the Chicago Territory because the wealth of the great area served by The Chicago Tribune is founded solidly in the definite prosperity of its people, the products of its soil and factories, the wages of its well-paid labor, indisputable prosperity demonstrated by its bank and savings deposits. Conservative analysis points to a figure in excess of eight billion dollars as the net income of the Chicago Territory for 1926 -in wages, in crops, in the sale of raw and manufactured products.

WAGES . . . the American Federation of Labor, says: "The coming year will be as good as, if not better than 1926 . . . Because wages are high we can do our part in buying the articles industries are turning out in ever increasing quantities. Prospects ahead are good."

Ten typical industrial groups in the 7th Federal Reserve District reported wages paid in this zone as 500 million dollars. Government estimates show that 60% of building construction costs are paid out in wages. 60% of the $1,300,000,000 expenditure for building construction in Zone 7 in 1926 is 780 million dollars. These are only two typical items. The TOTAL gross wages paid, including salaries, bonuses, and commissions, in 1926 in Zone 7, have been conservatively estimated as Production for 1926 totaled 3,950,000 cars. Of these, at an average price of $886 per car, the motorists of Zone 7 bought 750 million dollars' worth. And 1927 looks even better than 1926! William F. ### BUILDING CONSTRUCTION ...

One billion five hundred million dollars! That's what Zone 7 spent during 1926 for building. More than a half billion was spent for residential construction alone! 1926 was a record year in building throughout the nation, and the City of Chicago outstripped all other communities except New York City in volume, having the largest amount of building-430 million dollars' worth.

In either case further reduction of federal in taxes, if not in this congressional session, then by a program introduced in the new congress, is a certainty.

So is continuance of public debt reduction, probably on a larger scale even than in 1926, for if congress does not cut the taxes during this winter's session there will be a substantially larger treasury surplus to reduce the debt.

Chicago Title and Trust Company, as Trustee

First Real Estate Mortgage Collateral 51/4% Gold Bonds, Series"C"

Dated January 1, 1927

Principal and semi-annual interest, January 1 and July 1, payable at Chicago Title and Trust Company. Redeemable as a whole of in part upon 30 days' notice on January 1, 1932, or on any interest date thereafter, at 100 and interest. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only.

SECURITY-These bonds are a direct obligation of a Trust created by the Illinois Merchants Trust Company with the Chicago Title and Trust Company as Trustee, and, together with any other series, will be specifically secured by deposit with the Trustee of first mortgages upon the fee of improved real estate located in the "Greater Chicago" district, to the amount of 110% of the par value of outstanding bonds.

DIVERSIFICATION OF COLLATERAL—The selection of these mortgages is made by the Chicago Title and Trust Company with the same care for diversification as to size, character and geographical location as it uses in the selection of mortgages for its other trust funds. The purchase of mortgages will be limited to, but diversified in, the counties of Cook, Lake and DuPage, Illinois, and the county of Lake, Indiana.

COLLATERAL LEGAL FOR TRUST FUNDS—Every mortgage shall be such as is legal for the investment of trust funds by trustees under the laws of the State of Illinois. No mortgage shall exceed 60% of the Trustee's appraised value of the land together with completed and existing improvements.

THE 10% MARGIN—The 10% margin of real estate mortgages in excess of the par value of the bonds is supplied by the Chicago Title and Trust Company out of its own holdings and is held by it in a Special Protective Fund. This fact gives added assurance that the Trustee's conservative policy in the selection of mortgages will be continued, as under this arrangement any loss experienced by the Trust would in the first instance be incurred by the Trustee.

THE TRUSTEE—The Chicago Title and Trust Company is unusually well qualified to make appraisals and to select mortgages by reason of its wide experience and long acquaintance with real estate values and their trends, having been for more than forty years a purchaser of real estate mortgages in large amount for its own investment as well as for trust funds under its control. The extent of this experience can be judged from the fact that these purchases to date are in excess of $200,000,000, of which more than $50,000,000 is now being carried for the Trustee's own account and in trust funds. In the few instances in which foreclosures have been necessary, the net result to date on such foreclosures has been a substantial profit.

ADMINISTRATION OF TRUST-The Chicago Title and Trust Company will attend to all details incident to collection of principal and interest on the mortgages, examination of titles, and provision for proper insurance, thus relieving the holder of these bonds from the many annoying features involved in the direct ownership of mortgages.

FIRE MANAGERS EXPECT PROFIT ON 1926 BUSINESS

Western department managers for the fire underwriters report that a profit will be shown on the 1926 business which has not been the case for some time. The improved tone of general business is given some credit as there is said to be a direct relationship between poor business and fire losses.

Tendency of the companies to tighten up on underwriting conditions is cited as having had a marked effect in the loss departments. Reductions have been made in the number of questionable and fraudulent claims.

NEW page is turned in the annals of S. W. STRAUS & CO. as the new year opens. "Now 45 years", is the message it carries _45 years of successful effort to serve the investing public, the building and real estate industries, and the community in general.

For forty-five years, the Straus organization has been faithful to the traditions on which this business was founded in 1882, which guide its conduct today, and which shall guide it in the future:

They were dry and evidently pained her as she moved, for she gave another little whimper.

The cool brine would help all this, Bengal knew, though smarting a little at first. He doubted though that she could walk. "Does it hurt you to stand, dear?" he asked, gently.

"A little. But I don't mind; if you will take me away," she answered drowsily, and rubbed her eyes.

"Right away. I'll carry you."

He kicked aside the awning, found the fitted bag and filled it with cans of food from the box of provisions. Water they had, in slight but sufficient quantity. Picking up the jug he poured some in a cup, gave it to Carillon, who drank thirstily, then drank his fill himself. No weapons were in sight. They had probably been taken aboard the sloop, Bengal thought. He cut off one of the awning clews and knotted a sling with which to carry the valise of load from his shoulder, then another for the rifle.

Thus accoutered in heavy marching trim, it was no slight tax to carry a firt who for all her apparent slenderness weighed one hundred and thirty bounds. But Bengal's bone and brawn were more than equal to the task. He sathered up Carilion as one might a child of five, wincing himself at her little cries of pain when the chiffon of rags tugged at her cuts. Walking smoothly but with long strides, Bengal started back for the southeastern end of the cay. He had not made more than a hundred yards of progress when here came the sound of a distant hail. Looking out toward the sloop he saw hat she had got her anchor and was moving slowly toward the end of the land, round which lay the cruiser on the rocks. Three men were on deck, and there would probably be a fourth below, on watch as engineer, Bengal hought. The three were staring his way, evidently puzzled at this singular hought. > BARDELYS THE MAGNIFICENT"

Bardelys was one of those dashing nobles who basked in the favor of the king, fought the best fights, tossed off the slickest bits of repartee, and boasted of more amours than any man in court. The ladies! Ah, me, how they loved him! How his smile set their tender hearts to palpitating!

Evanston Country club on Saturday night.

In order to keep his son-in-law out of jail Father Goodman turns over all his worldly goods to Applebaum.

Things are untangled before the finish of the returns of the re ish of the picture, however, and the last scenes show Jacob about to be established once more in his umbrella business and bashfully kissing Amelia

But he had a rival, the crafty Chatellerault, whose eye had been captured by Roxallanne, a pretty and chaste maid who dwelt far from the court with its sins and intrigue. Roxalanne would have none of Chatellerault, so Bardelys and the other nobles took to chiding him about his ill success with the lady.

Chatellerault snarlingly proposes that Bardelys try to win her himself; in fact, he says that if Bardelys woos and wins the girl, he, Chatellerault, will sign over to him all his worldly goods. Bardelys is reluctant to take on the wager, but being goaded by his rival, he finally hisses: "Ah ha! my honor is involved!" and the bet is on.

honor is involved!" and the bet is on.

Then does this brave knight sally forth on a most adventurous quest. He's smitten with the lady Roxalanne, and she with him. And never did love travel a more difficult course than theirs. Duels galore, wild rides, and a near execution beset Bardelys before his afl important honor is satisfied and the lady securely won.

John Gilbert as Bardelys performs a lot of Fairbanksian stunts with grace and agility. No doubt his adulatory feminine following will approve of his performance. Eleanor Boardman is a lovely and ladylike Roxalanne, and Roy D'Arcy is villianous enough as Chatellerauit. Direction and photography are satisfactory. If these crowded costume pictures appeal to you, you'll probably like this one.

Why So Lonely, Boys, When Initiative Is All That's Needed? SWEET

"We are three boys, new arrivals in the city, who would like to make the acquaintance of three nice girls who would be interested in theaters, dances, and everything that would make the hours pass pleasantly. If any girls are interested enough to answer this letter through your column we will be glad to give the best of ref.

"We are three boys, new arrivals of the most attractive models of the season, but it is so easy to make that no one who sews need hesitate to attempt it. The deep insertion applied over the dress is a simple finish, though an embroidered border of flowers with one on the left shoulder would be most attractive.

Three Lonely Boys.

I am sorry, boys, but the column has to draw the line at anything savoring of a matrimonial bureau. Not that I do not often wish it was in my power to put lonely young women and lonely young men in touch with each other, and lonely elder people, too. But you understand this would necessarily require a whole organization in itself, with a number of investigators to look into the merits of the acquaintto look into the merits of the acquaint ance seekers. Even so, there is always the risk of undesirables making their

Besides, I don't think youth really needs the services of such a bureau. It ought to be venturesome enough to go forth and seak its own friends. One of the joys of being young is that you can make friends easily. Boys are accepted for what they are—not for what they have, particularly, and the same is true of girls. If a boy is mannerly, of neat appearance, and good character he has all kinds of openings awaiting him where he may meet girls of similar good qualities.

O. Henry said that the city is not cold, only you have to warm up to it. You have to warm up to this business of making yourselves necessary to so cial gatherings where you will meet young women. A boy has infinitely greater advantages over a girl in overcoming city lonesomeness. His is the privilege of making advances, of extending invitations. Without any embarrassment he can confide in the young men about his place of business that he would like to meet girls. These young men usually have sisters or cousins desirous of meeting eligible that he would like to meet girls. These young men usually have sisters or cousins desirous of meeting eligible boys. Or the boy can pick out a nice girl employed in the same concern, tell her he is lonely, and if her evenings are already spoken for she can put him in touch with some other young woman who will be just as much fun.

I know in advance that there will come, in response to the plea of you three lonelles, a great number of requests for your addresses, proving that there is no dearth of girls on the market. They're there waiting to be asked out. You do a little looking around close to your own working and living environment, boys, and see if you aren't overlooking some excellent girl material.

the garb of a goose-girl. For who would suspect any feminine wiles beneath the innocent simplicity of a peasant dress and serving apron? And, of course, it's just when they are unex-pected that feminine wiles are most

How charming the goose-girl's cos-tume may be is revealed above. The cap with its enormous brim is made of starched white muslin or organdle. A tight, short bodice of black velvet with square neck is edged all around with plaited organdle sewed inside.
Full, puffed sleeves of the same organdle end above the elbóws. An ample skirt of green is bordered with bands of red and yellow—a color scheme repeated in the red, green and yellow checks of the little apron. Heelless slippers should be worn to comless slippers should be worn to create the atmosphere of Arcady;

Perhaps an even more grateful suggestion—if you feel really inclined to be a peasant at the party—is to adopt the colorful embroideries and the coarse, strong white fabric characteristic of the Roumanian peasant. For this costume the tight bodice should be longer and the full skirt shorter and almost entirely covered with bright embroidered patterns. There must be dozens of photographs of this costume as worn by our recent royal visitor when she goes touring among hereown people. Look one up and you'll find, if you have the embroidered stuff, it is easy to fashion a peasant frock like it.

Now, if you like this type of dress, but wish to appear more elegant, nothing could be better for your purpose than a frock recently imported for a masked ball by a well-known actress. It is quite similar to the one we show above. But the whole character is differentiated because of its fabric and color scheme. Made entirely of crisp white silk—even the bodice—it was embroidered in fine gold thread. This theme was repeated on the apron which was made of stuff as sheer as chiffon. If Queen Marie had not gone I should never have mentioned R—but this is a costume of her rival neighbor—the dress of a fine lady of Jugo-Slavia.

Reconditioned V-63 Cadillacs Make Fine Winter Driving Cars It is convenient and comforting to know that a warm, reliable car of your own awaits you at your door ready to take you anywhere. It means for you no more overly crowded busses and street cars or waiting on cold cor-Reconditioned V-63

Cadillacs are good cars when they come into our possession, and they go through such a rigid reconditioning that they sell with the regular 90 day new car warranty covering finish and mechanism.

The cars are cleaned inside and out. A new finish of genuine Duco is applied if the present one is not as good. The upholstery is spotless and shows little if any wear. The motor is quiet and smooth, having been carefully overhauled in our own workshop.

All of these cars can be bought on the GMAC time purchase plan, and if you now own a car it will be taken to reduce the down payment.
